

25th March 2009:

Hearing it as it is – the Nvolve Business Experience:

There is no better way to understand what it's like to be in business than to hear it from someone who has been there and done it! Enterprise Ireland hosted an information evening on 'Starting a technology business in Letterkenny on the 25th of March 2009.

Barry Harper, Chief Executive of Nvolve Limited described how he and his team developed the Nvolve Response™ software solution and how he has developed his Letterkenny based company to date.

Pat Byrne, Department Manager in Enterprise Ireland also spoke about how his division supports new Irish global businesses and his experience in dealing with start-up companies and the traits often seen in successful entrepreneurs. Pat said 'a technology business is one that is utilising new technologies to develop and market new or improved products, it could be in software, food, engineering or life sciences.

The information evening was just the beginning of a process where entrepreneurs will be able to access useful information to help them start the process of developing a new business idea. Enterprise Ireland in conjunction with FAS is running an Enterprise Start Programme over 6 weekends in April and May to support anyone who wishes to generate a robust business plan.
